I love being a nanny because I don't have to sit in a cubicle all day. I get to chase after kiddos, stay fit and active, and have fun. I love being a nanny because I'm getting paid to interact with kiddos, and let's face it, kids are way more fun than adults (most of the time, until your toddler charge throws the hissy fit of the century because she wants ice cream for breakfast).

Oh overtime. How I love you and hate you at the same time. I love you because I work hard and I deserve it. I hate you because so many parents ignore their LEGAL obligation to pay it, so I'm stuck deciding whether or not to risk my job by bringing it up or quitting my job because after bringing it up, they still refuse to pay it.

What is it with people when they hear you're a nanny and they immediately go "Oh! Your a nanny? I need/know someone who needs a babysitter if you're interested." And then they get all huffy when you tell them no and say they were just trying to help. Like, thank you, but I have a full time 50hr a week job! Ugh, the frustration is real!

I deserve to be fired : Nanny

The true sign of his nanniness is a love of lecturing people for being "very very very naughty," as the widowed dad in the 2005 film "Nanny McPhee" put it.
